Keeping up with Social Media

Tuesday, February 9

2 PM (ET), 1 PM (CT), 12 Noon (MT), 11 AM (PT)

Have you ever wondered if your students are using social media responsibly? What are reasonable rules for social media use?

Keeping up with how kids and teens use social media can be challenging for the most tech-savvy parents. This session will help parents better understand how their kids are using social networking and how to get the most out of the experience.

Presented by Sarah Mills, K12 Social Media Specialist

Join us for a quick 30-minute session as we chat informally about the topic of burnout and the importance of knowing the warning signs and strategies to work toward a healthier balance.

The Road to College Just Got Easier!

Monday, February 22

6 PM (ET), 5 PM (CT), 4 PM (MT), 3 PM (PT)

Learn all about the college application process, finding scholarships, getting a competitive edge, the importance of starting the process early, choosing the right school for your student and your wallet, and so much more. This first module “Planning Your Journey” Introduction - Laying the Foundation for College 101 is just the first in a series of hour-long workshops with Q&A called The Road to the Fat Envelope. The workshop series breaks down the entire process into manageable segments and gives you a detailed road map with a downloadable pdf for each session. K12 is pleased to make these workshops available only to our online schools. This is a one-of-a-kind workshop series, and you will have access to information that Private College Consultants charge thousands of dollars for, admissions insider information, and an honest parent perspective. These workshops have been created, designed, and passionately researched for more than five years by Pamela Gray Willcox, a former K12 school Learning Coach with admissions, marketing, and private college counseling experience. A current parent of high school and college-aged students, she will give it to you straight up from a perspective you can relate to. You will hear things about college planning you have never heard, before so don't miss this exciting introductory workshop.

Families with students in grades 7-11 are encouraged to attend.
