

Is a K12-powered school a good fit for my family? Let's find out!

Do any of the following sound like your student?

- My student does well in most subjects but sometimes needs help in certain areas.
- My student is an advanced learner and wants to be challenged academically.
- My student is struggling to keep up in class and we're worried about them falling behind.
- My student is an independent learner.
- My student is easily distracted and sometimes needs help with motivation for school.
- My student is interested in courses not offered at their current school.
- My student is curious about what to do after high school and wants guidance.
- My student needs a more flexible education where we can schedule schoolwork around other activities or appointments.

K12's engaging curriculum and personalized approach work for many types of students whether they're looking for a challenge or facing one. Plus, because online education can happen from the comfort of home or on the road, this option can provide an environment with fewer distractions where students can focus on learning. Students have fun, too, with virtual and in-person activities to be social.

Students at a tuition-free* K12-powered school can enjoy:

Personalized instruction and support from state-certified teachers

The ability to work at their pace especially in grades K–5, whether that means working ahead or taking more time as needed

Advanced courses including honors and AP[®]

Credit recovery courses

A variety of electives including world languages

Career-focused courses that allow for exploration, job shadowing, and more

Dual enrollment options to earn college credit while in high school

Do any of the following sound like you?

- You want to see your child succeed academically.
- You want to be more involved with your child's learning.
- You want to see your child reach their full potential.
- You are a bit nervous about the idea of teaching your child at home on your own.
- You like a good deal.

At K12-powered schools, we're a community. And that includes the parents and families of students, too. You, or another responsible adult, get to be more engaged with your student's education by acting as their Learning Coach. That role might be new and even a little intimidating, but you're not alone with the support of state-certified teachers and a library of resources including lesson guides, video tutorials, and tips from other Learning Coaches. We provide your student with a laptop, offer technical support to help set things up or troubleshoot if needed, and even ship the offline, hands-on class materials to your door.[†]

Getting Started

K12 powers several types of tuition-free online public schools.
To learn more about options in your state, visit:
K12.com

^{*}Families do not pay tuition for a student to attend an online public school. Common household items and office supplies like printer ink and paper are not provided. Our enrollment consultants can help address your technological and computer questions and needs. Educational materials vary by school and course.

^{}Courses vary by school. Please check with your school.

[†]Course materials vary by course and school.