Transcript: Setting Schedules and Routines

Transcript (Video)
Transcript (Video with Audio Description)
Transcript (Audio Description)

Transcript (Video)

Screen 1:
[00:00:00.000]
[MUSIC]

[00:00:04.276]
In addition to engaging curriculum and innovative online tools,

[00:00:07.767]
your student's K12-powered school has a talented faculty,

[00:00:11.195]
which includes state-certified or licensed teachers.

[00:00:14.700]
We continue to drive technological advancements and innovation, while also

[00:00:18.800]
investing in what continues to truly matter, the human factor, great teachers.

[00:00:23.830]
Teachers and staff are trained on how to effectively work in an online environment.
Including being able to assess where your student is academically at key points of the year and then mapping out a student center learning path.

This student centered learning path, includes the K12 curriculum and may include required or optional live class connect sessions.

And the need for supplementary help sessions.

Your student may have more or fewer required live class connect sessions and help sessions than other students.

The path is mapped to what your student needs.
[00:00:56.020]

KATIE: As a teacher, I'm able to see real time data, how the student's doing.

[00:01:00.780]

I'm able to see when they access the lesson.

[00:01:03.390]

The score they received on the assessment.

[00:01:05.380]

How many times they took the assessment.

[00:01:06.960]

How long it took them.

[00:01:08.400]

And I'm able to use that to really drive my instruction for

[00:01:12.100]

classes later in the week.

[00:01:13.600]

Or to reach out to that student,
or the learning coach,

[00:01:16.620]

and provide assistance if I think that they're really struggling with something.

[00:01:20.780]

DARREN: It is important to structure your daily schedule around your student's required class connect and help sessions.

Your K12 powered school will share more about what the school year will look like for your student.

We have gathered helpful tips from long-time learning coaches about schedules and routines.

Most successful school days begin with daily logging in to the online school.

Checking the daily schedule and calendar each morning or even the night before. It is an important part of a successful school routine.

While your student has some ability to order and organize their work,
according to their personal preference,
there will be regular required class connect sessions that cannot be missed.
These will be listed in the calendar and daily plan.
Teachers and administrators know that establishing routines during the first days and weeks of school helps make this year more successful.

DESIREE: Just like any mom, I'm getting the kids up and rolling out of bed, breakfast.

And then everyone checks their emails.

And then they all check their Class Connect schedules.
And then I always have a capability to see all of their Class Connect schedules as well.

And just to see who's going to be doing what.

Kinda have an outline of the day.

Then, as everyone is going through their school process,

then I pop in periodically.

Just to see how everyone's doing.

Making sure they're really paying attention and focused through their class.

And if they have questions,

then I'm always accessible to them.

DARREN: Students need structure and routines, and

[00:02:53.800]

enjoy having the security of a planned sequence of events.

[00:02:57.300]

ANITA: Typically we get up in the morning,

I get up in the morning, and

[00:03:01.620]

I like to get everything prepared,

get all of the coursework together.

[00:03:05.750]

Get breakfast ready, lunch ready, and then ask Zachary to get up out of bed.

[00:03:10.670]

He typically is up about 7:30, and that's when the work really begins.

[00:03:15.540]

All the preparation work and organizing helps us to have a smooth day.

[00:03:20.250]

DARREN: It's also important to realize that there might be interruptions,

[00:03:23.360]

unexpected events and illnesses that occur.

For smaller interruptions, try to get back on task as quickly as possible.

For longer interruptions, work with your student's K-12 powered school to identify ways to get your students back on track.

As you prepare your daily schedule and daily routine, remember that consistency is essential in the development of a good schedule.

It might take time to find what works for your family and start seeing the positive results.

A well thought out plan and consistent routine are keys to success.
And as you think through your family's schedule and routine,
I also encourage you to protect time for your student to be social.
Maybe sign your child up for a local youth sports league, volunteer organization, or choir.
And take advantage of the school activities, such as online clubs and student contests, and the parent support offered through your K12-powered school.
I hope you have found these tips to be helpful.
Together, we can maximize every school day that belongs to your child.
[00:00:00.461]

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] K12 Learning Coach University

[00:00:02.426]
Schedules and Routines.

[00:00:04.471]
Darren Reed K12 School Leadership.

[00:00:06.936]
He smiles and speaks to the camera in intervals.

[00:00:08.867]
throughout the video.

[00:00:10.402]
As he speaks, a montage of video clips

[00:00:12.429]
show teachers wearing headsets and speaking into mics

[00:00:15.075]
at their computers.

[00:00:16.449]

DARREN: In addition to engaging curriculum<

[00:00:17.992]
and innovative online tools,

[00:00:19.835]
your student's K12 powered school has a talented faculty,

[00:00:22.860]
which includes state certified or licensed teachers.

[00:00:26.795]
We continue to drive technological advancements.
and innovation while also investing in what continues to truly matter, the human factor, great teachers.

Teachers and staff are trained in how to effectively work in an online environment, including being able to assess where your student is academically at key points of the year and then mapping out a student centered learning path.

This student centered learning path includes the K12 curriculum and may include required or optional live class connect sessions and the need for supplementary help sessions. Your student may have more or fewer required live class connect sessions and help sessions than other students. The path is mapped to what your student needs.

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Katie Pointdexter, K12 Teacher
speaks to the camera.

KATIE: As a teacher, I’m able to see real-time data, how the student's doing.

I'm able to see when they access the lesson,

the score they received on the assessment,

how many times they took the assessment,

how long it took them, and I'm able to use that to really drive my instruction for classes later in the week or to reach out to that student or the learning coach and provide assistance if I think that they're really struggling with something.

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Students studying at their home computers alone or with their learning coach.

All desks are clean and organized.

DARREN: It is important to structure your daily schedule around your student's required class connect and help sessions.

Your K12 powered school will share more about what the school year will look like for your student.

We have gathered helpful tips from long-time learning coaches about schedules and routines.

Most successful school days begin with daily logging in to the online school, checking the daily schedule and calendar each morning or even the night before.

It is an important part of a successful school routine.

While your student has some ability to order and organize their work according to their personal preference, there will be regular required class connect sessions that cannot be missed.

These will be listed in the calendar and daily plan.
Teachers and administrators know that establishing routines during the first days and weeks of school helps make this year more successful.

Desiree speaks to the camera. As she speaks, three teens sit at a kitchen island eating breakfast. The three students are then shown at their computers. Desiree checks in with them as they study.

Desiree: Just like any mom, I'm getting the kids up and rolling out of bed, breakfast and then everyone checks their emails and then they all check their class connect schedules and then I always have a capability to see all of their class connect schedules as well and just to see who's gonna be doing what and kind of have an outline of the day.
Then, as everyone is going through their school process,
then I pop in periodically just to see how everyone's doing, making sure they're really paying attention and focused through their class.
If they have questions, then I'm always accessible to them.

DARREN: Students need structure and routines and enjoy having the security of a planned sequence of events.

[Audio Description] Anita, Learning Coach, speaks to the camera.

ANITA: Typically, we get up in the morning.
I get up in the morning and I like to get everything prepared,
get all the course work together, get breakfast ready,
lunch ready and then ask Zachary to get up out of bed.
He typically is up about 7:30 and that's when the work really begins.

All the preparation work and organizing helps us to have a smooth day.

DARREN: It's also important to realize that there might be interruptions, unexpected events and illnesses that occur.

For smaller interruptions, try to get back on task as quickly as possible.

For longer interruptions, work with your students K12 powered school to identify ways to get your students back on track.

As you prepare your daily schedule and daily routine, remember that consistency is essential in the development of a good schedule.

It might take time to find what works for your family and start seeing the positive results.
A well thought-out plan and consistent routine are keys to success.

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Kids playing soccer in uniform,
kids on a hiking trip rest at the top of a mountain.

DARREN: And as you think through your family's schedule and routine, I also encourage you to protect time for your student to be social.

Maybe sign your child up for a local youth sport's league, volunteer organization or choir.

And take advantage of the school activities such as online clubs and student contests and the parent support offered through your K12 powered school.

I hope you have found these tips to be helpful.

Together we can maximize every school day that belongs to your child.
Transcript (Audio Description)

[00:00:00.461]
[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] K12 Learning Coach University

Schedules and Routines.

[00:00:04.471]
Darren Reed K12 School Leadership.

[00:00:06.936]
He smiles and speaks to the camera in intervals

[00:00:08.867]
throughout the video.

[00:00:10.402]
As he speaks, a montage of video clips

[00:00:12.429]
show teachers wearing headsets and speaking into mics

[00:00:15.075]
at their computers.

[00:01:07.974]
[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Katie Pointdexter, K12 Teacher

[00:01:09.923]
speaks to the camera.

[00:01:35.860]
[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Students studying at their

[00:01:36.693]
home computers alone or with their learning coach.

[00:01:39.566]
All desks are clean and organized.

[00:02:30.794]
[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Desiree, Learning Coach speaks to the camera.
As she speaks, three teens sit at a kitchen island eating breakfast.
The three students are then shown at their computers.
Desiree checks in with them as they study.

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] Kids playing soccer in uniform,
kids on a hiking trip rest at the top of a mountain.

[AUDIO DESCRIPTION] K12 Learning Coach University